

NICK YOUNG IS DEAD AT 76.

Former President of National League Expires in Washington. WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Nicholas E. Young, an old-time baseball player and former President of the National League, died at his home here early today. He had been employed in the Treasury Department for some time. Young was born in Amsterdam, N. Y., and was seventy-six years old. He played professional baseball with the old Nationals of Washington in the sixties, later with the Chicago Club of the Union League, and was at one time manager of the Lord Baltimore Club of Baltimore.

He became President and Secretary of the National League in 1887, and held that position until 1893, when he retired and was succeeded by Harry P. Williams.

EVENING WORLD'S "PENNY LUNCHES" A BIG SUCCESS

150,000 School Children to Be Served With Good Food This Year.

No Hungry Child in a Public School!

Food First for the School Children!

This was the slogan used in the Evening World campaign for penny lunches in the public schools, and as a result 150,000 children will be served with penny lunches in about one hundred public schools this year. An additional $15,000 was appropriated yesterday by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment for equipment to furnish more lunch-eons.

Twenty-five thousand children will be accommodated from one central kitchen—a building given over entirely to cooking penny lunches in the public schools—the first of its kind in the world.

This building, which was formerly Public School No. 95E, at the corner of Delancy and Tompkins Streets, has been rebuilt, and a great system of cooking wholesome foods for children has been installed.

It will supply penny lunches to every school south of Twenty-third Street. This notable achievement was accomplished by the crusade carried through the Evening World, which disclosed facts showing that thousands of children went to school breakfastless, and were suffering from malnutrition on account of being unable to secure wholesome food.

This building devoted to penny lunch cooking exclusively, as well as other kitchens were brought about by the action of the Board of Aldermen in the issuing of 25,000 revenue bonds in a resolution carried through and fathered by Alderman Curran, and many Aldermen now concede that this is one of the most noteworthy achievements of the Board.

This kitchen contains fourteen forty-gallon soup cauldrons for the preparation of soup, cocoa, etc. It contains a complete bakery, a central food storage equipment, a central storage equipment, and a large assembly room where the food is to be packed, ready for heated motor trucks that at the proper moment will carry steaming food to each school within the area. Also, it contains the highest calorific value of the percentage of the energy producing elements will be used.

CENTRAL KITCHEN A TRIUMPH OF INGENUITY.

Every economic device as to sanitation and sterilization has been procured for this kitchen. For example, between two cauldrons there is stationed a large gas water heater which heats big quantities of water to 140 degrees Fahrenheit. Fourteen cauldrons can be filled automatically with hot water. This one device alone saves the wasteful and unsanitary method of carrying water. Seven thousand plates of dinner, made up of puddings and pastry will be turned out daily out of the six output bake ovens.

Forty 1,100-portion portions of food were served in the kitchen exclusive of Brooklyn as a result of the penny lunch system. It is estimated that this number will be double this year.

Another important work has been accomplished by The Evening World contribution fund. Crippled and anemic children in congested areas were given a mid-morning milk and cracker service, thus nourishing hundreds of children who were formerly in so-called "anemic classes."

By furnishing breakfast to these children after a little while they were able to go back into their original classes. Many letters of thanks have been received by The Evening World. One received to-day from Principal Mary L. Brady of Public School No. 17, reads as follows:

"My dear Miss Loebe: Last year about 100 children in this school, who were in very poor physical condition, very anemic, were helped by your very generous arrangement of providing them with milk.

"I should like to have this gift to the school continued, as the need for it still exists."

"In appreciation of your very great help in this matter, I am, very sincerely yours,

"MARY L. BRADY, Principal."

PRIZE FOR EVENING WORLD'S LIFE-SAVING LUNCHES.

The service for anemic and crippled children has therefore been extended. Edward E. Brown, Executive Secretary of the New York School Lunch Committee, in connection with this made the following statement:

"For the month of January, February and March, 1916, the School Lunch Committee from The Evening World contributed 5,896 quarts of milk, 544 pounds of crackers and 153 dozen eggs. A similar service continued during the balance of the term."

"The Evening World, in addition, contributed money to purchase the equipment which made available the service of hot food at cost to 6,328 children, registered in Public Schools Nos. 29, 40, 44, 69 and 180. Out of this number approximately 950 children are fed daily."

"The service in Public School No. 69, where 1,374 children are registered, of whom eighty-six are crippled, half of this number being tubercular or predisposed to tuberculosis, is of especial importance because of the distance the children come to school. They are, therefore, unable to go home at noon for lunch."

"On Jan. 8, the beginning of last year, the School Lunch Committee, in co-operation with The Evening World, opened a lunch service in Public School No. 44. This school has a number of classes of crippled and blind children who, if it were not for the lunch service maintained there, would be badly off for want of hot and properly balanced foods. The school has a register of 845 children. Since the opening, 10,818 lunches were sold to the children, for which they paid $432.62." (This is to be continued this year.)

In Brooklyn a similar building up of the penny lunch system is evidenced.

The schools equipped for lunch service by special revenue bonds secured through the efforts of The Evening World are:

P. S. 27, Nelson and Hicks Streets.

P. S. 36, Bushwick Avenue and Stagg Street.

P. S. 128, Eighty-third Street and Twenty-first Avenue.

P. S. 141, McKibben and Leonard Streets.

P. S. 146, Eighteenth Street and Sixth Avenue.

P. S. 84, Glenmore and Stone Avenues.

P. S. 149, Wyona and Vernon Avenues.

P. S. 150, Belmont Avenue and Sackman Street.

P. S. 165, Lott and Hopkinson Avenues.

To this number were added equipment furnished by the Board of Education for P. S. 53, Troutman and Starr Streets; P. S. 145, Central Avenue and Noll Street; and P. S. 153, Avenue T and Tenth Street.

According to Mrs. Harry Cox, President of the Brooklyn School Lunch Association, the lunch service is growing steadily and is now on a self-supporting basis. The efforts of The Evening World to have lunches installed in the public schools has not had a tendency to impoverish the children, as many people predicted that it would, and all necessities children are amply supplied. Malnutrition or hunger has been greatly reduced accordingly.

950 MESSENGERS STRIKE, CRIPPLING TELEGRAPH OFFICES

Both Western Union and Postal Admit No Calls Are Being Answered.

If you're looking for a telegram and don't get it, if that delicately penciled message fails to arrive and if you can't get a carrier for those lovely flowers which should be on my lady's table, don't worry. The messenger boys are on a strike and the Western Union and Postal Telegraph services are crippled. The boys for the former are furnished by the A. D. T. The boys of the A. D. T. and the Postal had a meeting last night and declared for better wages and better conditions in these days of high cost for living.

With the help of regular organizers the strike, which started yesterday with thirty, reached a total of 950 up to noon. At the telegraph offices it was admitted no effort had been made to answer messenger calls from any part of the city since half-past ten this morning.

"Yes, we're sort of crippled," admitted D. O. Skelton, general superintendent of the A. D. T. Company, which supplies the messenger force to the Western Union. "We are not making any effort to answer messenger calls of the ordinary kind. We are trying to keep the general business of the service going."

A similar admission was made at the Postal Telegraph Company's offices. When a rapid count was made at 10 o'clock this morning at the A. D. T. offices, No. 199 Broadway, it was found the messenger force was short 500.

"Yes, it's 500," admitted Mr. Skelton.

At the Postal office it was admitted that 450 messengers failed to report.

The night and day boys ask for a ten-hour day and a day off every other week. The night boys want $12 a week against the $9.61 they're getting now and the company to furnish uniforms. The day boys ask $15 a day against the $4.10 to $5.40 a week they get now from the Postal and the $8.17 a week from the A. D. T., working every day in the year, ten hours a day. The night boys decree that they shall not work after 5 A. M. in districts where boys are working on commission.

A flat rate of three cents for delivery of a telegram is demanded for the boys working on commission and one-half the service payment where the latter is between 15 and 25 cents. Where it is over 25 cents, they demand one-half after deducting carfare; five cents for delivering or getting a cablegram.

These boys now get 1-2 to 2-2

HOW HUGHES WOULD HAVE SETTLED STRIKE

It has remained for William Howard Taft, who, as President, appointed Charles E. Hughes to the Supreme Court bench, to make clear that had Mr. Hughes been President in the railroad strike crisis last summer he would have operated them with the aid of United States troops. Here is what Mr. Taft said yesterday at Marshall, Mich.

"The Adamson Bill ought to arouse in every clear-headed, clear-sighted American the utmost humiliation. If Mr. Hughes had been President his remedy would have been to offer arbitration and, that refused, to have the Government do all in its power to protect the railroads when they filled the strikers' places."

cents for delivering a telegram and one-third of the service payment, less the cost of transportation. Three cents is demanded for a message where the addressee cannot be found. The boys now receive nothing for such a message. They want also 2 cents when sent to a wrong address, for which they now get nothing.

In the Western Union service 100 branch offices are crippled, and in the Postal 68. The youngsters got on the picket line and resorted to strong-arm methods. Boys were followed into hallways and there, unknown by the police, "organization" was effected in a more or less degree. The "scale" went back to their offices, marked up and refused to go out again in the uniform.

THIEF CHASE ON BROADWAY.

Victim of Pickpocket Helps Capture "John Doe," Ex-Convict.

Christopher Jahelung of Union Hill, N. J., was on an eastbound Fifty-ninth Street car to-day when a smartly dressed man stumbled against him and offered an apology. He noted that his pocketbook containing $2.50 had vanished about the time he saw the other man leaving the car at Columbus Circle. Jahelung started after the man, yelling "stop thief!" In a few seconds twenty or thirty men had joined the chase up Broadway.

The man ran into the arms of Policeman Gundelheimer. At Headquarters he was recognized as a pickpocket who always gives the name of "John Doe." He was released from the penitentiary four days ago.
